Place of Interest

Botanical Garden, Penang

Sun Ray thru the shade of trees

The Penang Botanic Gardens, more popularly known as "Waterfall Gardens", was established by the British way back in 1884 from an old granite quarry site. It lies in a deep valley, at the foot of 366 feet jungle clad hills, bound by ever-green tropical rain forests, divided by a cascading stream that meanders through a sprawling 29 hectares of prime and undulating grounds.

Its lush greenery and tranquil setting makes it a favourite park and a popular tourist attraction. It is not only a Garden to most of the Penangites. It is a place of family and/or friends gathering, many people come to the Gardens early in the morning to jog, exercise, and enjoy the clean fresh air. As the day goes on, hundred of visitors come to sit at the lawn, by the stream or underneath the shade of trees.

Besides all the recreation activities, various floras unknown to many are found in these gardens..

Penang Food of the month—Laksa

Penang Laksa is also called Asam Laksa (Asam = Tamarind). It is made with mackerel or Sardines soup and its main distinguishing feature is the as-sam or tamarind which gives the soup a sour taste. The fish is poached and then flaked. Other ingredients that give Penang laksa its distinctive flavour include lemongrass, galangal (lengkuas) and chilli. Typical garnishes include mint, pineapple slices, thinly sliced onion, he-ko, a thick sweet prawn paste and use of torch ginger flower.
